July 24, 2025 – For the sixth consecutive year, the Chambers High Net Worth guide, which focuses on the private wealth sector, recognized Hughes Hubbard as one of the nation's leading law firms for Art and Cultural Property Law.

Chambers ranked the firm's Art Law practice in the second-highest band among the top firms nationwide.

"Hughes Hubbard offers impeccable efficiency and knowledge in understanding artists' needs," said a market insider. "Hughes Hubbard's approach is always thoughtful, deliberate and articulate," another insider commented. "They are always flexible and consider your appetite for risk."

Dan Weiner (Band 1), Meaghan Gragg (Band 3) and Michael Salzman (Band 3) were individually recognized.

"Daniel is highly responsive. He is always available. He is also incredibly knowledgeable," one industry source said about Weiner. Of Gragg, an interviewee said, "Meaghan Gragg is a wonderful lawyer – deliberate and articulate, but also wise and commercially savvy." Another market insider said of Salzman, "He brings considerable experience to art-related matters, including authenticity and title disputes as well as transactions."

Published by Chambers & Partners, the Chambers High Net Worth rankings comprise independent research based on hundreds of interviews with professionals about the private wealth industry.
